TWO FRESH AMERICAN DIVISIONS IN KOREA

Communists Resume Taejon Battle With Heavy Barrage; 24th U. S. Division Still Holds

By The Associated Press
Korean Front: Communists resume Taejon battle with artillery barrage with 24th U. S. Division still holding. Two fresh U. S. divisions, the 1st Cavalry and the 25th, have landed and plunged into the Korean war. First Cavalry drives inland seven miles from east coast. New forces reported already in action.
Air war: Allied planes lash Communist vehicles, batter five bridges behind the front, strike heavily at supply lines and hit cities in North Korea. Carrier-based planes strike at Wonsan and Pyongyang. Air strikes reported badly hurting enemy supply lines.
Washington: President Truman goes to congress with outline of what U. S. needs to win victory for United Nations in Korea. Observers see more divisions of troops, six more months, needed to win out. U. S. replies to Indian mediation proposal that Communists must withdraw first, frowns on suggestion Red China be admitted to U. N. as essential to negotiations.
Moscow: Russian press reports new Red offensive developing around Taejon.

Landing Is Not The Signal For Yank Counter-Offensive

An American base in Korea, July 19—(AP)—The landing of two new U. S. infantry divisions in South Korea is not the signal for an American counter-offensive.
There likely will be more delaying action in which relatively few troops absorb the brunt of new Northern attacks and give ground grudgingly.
The two divisions are the First (Turn to Page Ten)

Three Tots Dead In Different Tragedies

Pittsburgh, July 19—(AP)—Tragedy stalked three western Pennsylvania youngsters yesterday. One burned to death in a garbage plant incinerator and two others drowned.
Eight-year-old James Basinger of McCoy Hollow road fell through an outside door to the incinerator while playing about the Connellsville Garbage plant. He was burned beyond recognition.
Less than an hour after his mother took him to a summer camp near Johnsonburg, Elk county, two-year-old Neil Herre drowned in Wolfe Run Creek.
The boy was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Herre of Harrisburg and a grandson of R. N. Jones, general manager of the New York and Pennsylvania Paper Company plant at Johnsonburg.
William A. White, 16 months old, drowned when he fell from a footbridge into a small creek at the rear of Heidelberg race track in Collier township near Pittsburgh.

Extensive Remodeling of the Printz Co. Store In Second Avenue Is Under Way

Printz Co. today announced plans for extensive interior remodeling of its Warren store at 214 Second avenue.
The remodeling will be on a complete store-wide basis, and is expected to cost between $60,000 and $65,000.
Plans call for a greatly enlarged ladies wear department on a mezzanine floor, and a bigger boys and childrens department on a lower level. The men's furnishings department on the main level also will be expanded. New dressing rooms for each department also will be added.
Complete new fixtures will be installed by the famous Grand Rapids Store Equipment Company, which has handled the modernization work of most of the big department stores throughout the country. The fixtures (the company's copyrighted name for its display units) will be of light-colored walnut, and are designed to give greater visual display of merchandise.
The remodeling work also will include an inlaid asphalt tile flooring with an unusual design, and fluorescent lighting featuring the company's new "Slim-line" tubes.
A pneumatic tube system for cash and making change also will be installed.
Gamble Construction Company of Warren, has the general contract for the remodeling, while the electrical work will be done by Bevevino Electric Company, also of Warren.
The work is expected to be completed within approximately two months, and will give Warren the latest word in clothing store design.

Seep Agency Boosts Price of Pa. Crude

Pittsburgh, July 19—(AP)—The Joseph Seep Purchasing Agency of South Penn Oil Company today raised prices 14 cents a barrel for the Pennsylvania Grade crude oil it buys.
The new prices are $3.89 a barrel for middle district, Allegheny and Bradford field oil; $3.46 for South West Pennsylvania oil and $3.40 for oil from southeastern Ohio and West Virginia.
President George Hanks of South Penn said the price advances were made necessary by "continued high demand by refiners."

Congress Begins Grim Business Of Reshaping Economy

Washington, July 19—(AP)—Congress was set today for a plunge into the grim business of reshaping the American economy to produce the war tools for Korean and any future anti-Communist fighting.
Ahead of midday delivery of a presidential message, some lawmakers made it plain they want no half-way home front efforts in what many of them predicted is only the beginning of a showdown struggle with Russia.
Others—notably Senator Taft (R-Ohio) and House Republican Leader Martin of Massachusetts—cautioned against rushing into compulsory controls. They contended these might be a first step toward regimenting the economy permanently.
Taft and Martin promised Republican support for any legislation they feel "is really essential to the national security."
In this category, President Truman was expected to call for a middle-road program which would increase the size of the armed forces at a cost estimated at around $5,000,000,000 and provide credit and priority authority aimed at speeding war production.
Senator Lucas of Illinois, the Democratic leader, said he hopes to have bills carrying out the president's proposals before the senate for debate next week.
There was some evident fear in congress in advance that the president wouldn't go far enough in marshalling the country's resources for war.
This view came from the Republicans and Democrats.

HOUSING PROGRAM IN STATE PROGRESSING

Harrisburg, July 19—(AP)—Pennsylvania's $15,000,000 housing subsidy program moved on today with four projects already under construction and three more ready to begin.
One project, at Johnstown, is nearing completion. The other three, totaling 545 housing units along with Johnstown, are located at Butler, Erie and Lancaster.
Three other projects due to start next week are located at Bethlehem, Monaca and Annapolis.
The multi-million dollar subsidy program enables bidders to qualify for outright state grants up to 35 per cent of the cost of a housing project. The one submitting a plan for the lowest rentals over a period of years gets the contract.

15,000 Needed To Man Comprehensive Civilian Defense Program In the State

Indiantown Gap, July 18—(AP)—The Pennsylvania state guard will be reorganized immediately, with 18,000 men, should state units of the National Guard be called into federal service because of the Korean crisis.
That was disclosed last night by Gov. James H. Duff in a review of Pennsylvania's preparedness program before 400 county civilian defense leaders.
The county defense leaders, who witnessed maneuvers today of guard units in summer encampment here, were told that some 15,000 volunteers will be needed to set up a comprehensive civilian defense program for the state.
About 12,000 of these already are on hand, said Col. Lewis Acker, state civilian defense director, in announcing a September 1 deadline for completion of a "hard-hitting" civilian defense plan.
Importance of the civilian defense plan was emphasized both by Col. Acker and Gov. James H. Duff at a meeting of 400 county home defense leaders here yesterday. The meeting continued today.
"The responsibility of every group at home is greater than ever," Duff said.

SITUATION IN THE BALKANS ALARMS U. N.

Lake Success, July 19—(AP)—A United Nations committee warned today that the Russian-led Cominform may be planning an attack on Greece.
Secretary-General Trygve Lie advised member nations that the U. N. Balkan committee, with events in Korea as an example, had reported Communist propaganda attacks on the non-Communist Greek government might well be a cover-up for invasion plans.
The committee report contrasted with public displays of unconcern by officials of both Greece and Yugoslavia, both non-Communist countries, toward reports of unusual movements of Communist troops in southeast Europe.
The Balkan committee, in a warning of an unusual formal nature, based its fears on recent charges by Nicholas Zachariades, Greek rebel leader.
Zachariades, in the June 13 issue of the Cominform Journal, said the United States and Britain were fomenting an attack by expanded Greek armed forces on Communist Bulgaria and Albania.
Committee members denied that the Greek army was being built up. They said:
The committee reported from Geneva, Switzerland, where it is preparing its annual report for the U. N. General Assembly. U. N. spokesmen said committee observers are still in the field and its headquarters are still in Athens.
Zachariades' article berated Greece as one end of the "Athens-Belgrade axis." Belgrade is the capital of Yugoslavia.
Previous fears of aggression in the Balkans have centered mostly on a possible Russian-sponsored move against Premier Marshal Tito of Yugoslavia. The Cominform has blasted Tito since June, 1948, for too great independence from the Kremlin.

Steel Industry In Good Condition To Speed Production

New York, July 19—(AP)—This nation's steel mills, at present capacity operation, could turn out in a year some 13.6 million more tons of steel than were produced last year in all the rest of the world combined, including Russia and Communist-dominated countries.
This was the statement made today by the American Iron and Steel Institute as it announced that the industry's capacity topped 100,000,000 tons annually on July 1 and would reach 105,750,000 tons by the end of 1952.
At the same time the industry's giant, United States Steel Corp., with about one-third of all the steelmaking facilities in the country, announced plans to add at least another 2,360,000 tons of annual ingot capacity.
Chairman Irving S. Olds said the corporation planned a 1,660,000-ton increase by the fall of 1951 in the Chicago and Pittsburgh district plants of its subsidiary Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corp., and would start in 1951 to build the first part of its new integrated mill near Trenton, N. J., with a minimum ingot capacity of around 700,000 tons annually.
Increases in tonnage capacity planned for individual plants were not disclosed.

HAMMERS OUT WAR MESSAGE—President Truman is pictured at his desk in the White House, working on his Korean war report. Mr. Truman called on Congress for moderate home front economic controls and a multi-billion dollar boost in military spending.

House Set To Pass and Rush to Chief Executive Foreign Arms Aid Measure

Washington, July 19—(AP)—In no mood to quibble, the house got set today to pass and rush to the White House a bill authorizing $1,222,500,000 of foreign arms aid to oppose Communist aggression.
Meanwhile, the president is expected to ask today for additional billions to bolster American action in Korea and some of his advisers reportedly are urging him to seek about $5,000,000,000 more for arming western Europe.
Passed without a dissenting vote in the senate, the arms bill is scheduled for swift approval from house members concerned about the possible spread of the Korean fighting.
Chairman Kee (D-W. Va.) of the House Foreign Affairs committee predicted there "won't be 15 votes against it." The bill had solid bipartisan backing.
In advance of today's session, leaders were aware of only one amendment to be offered from the floor. They also predicted prompt rejection of any changes which would delay getting the bill to President Truman for his signature.
Passage of the arms bill would authorize second-year military expenditures of $1,000,000,000 to western Europe and Atlantic Treaty nations; $131,500,000 to Greece, Turkey and Iran; $16,000,000 for Korea and the Philippines; and $75,000,000 for the general area of China.
Rawley Blacksnake, 23, of Quaker Bridge, a paratrooper en route to his station at Fort Bragg, N. C., is in Warren city jail this morning charged with larceny of $125 from a hotel guest in Warren. The victim is Willard L. Irwin, of Pleasantville, who reported to police that the money was taken from his wallet between two and four a. m. yesterday while he was asleep in his room at the Exchange Hotel.
Lt. Mike Evan said this morning that two fifty dollar bills and five of the five dollar variety were involved in the theft.
The arrest was made yesterday at Red House by Lt. Evan, Deputy Sheriff Sandy Secor and Patrolman Wilfred Hewitt in company with Sheriffs Herbert Bennett and D. M. McClune, of Cattaraugus county. Blacksnake was traced through the cashing of one of the $50 bills by a tax driver in Salamanca.
Officers also found that Blacksnake had left some of his luggage in a Warren bus station locker, and while watching the luggage, questioned his mother who had been sent to pick it up.
He will be arraigned before the (Turn to Page Ten)

McKinney Resigns As President Of Pirate Ball Club

Pittsburgh, July 19—(AP)—Frank E. McKinney resigned today as president of the Pittsburgh Pirates baseball club.
The Indianapolis banker also sold his stock to two of his three partners.
John Galbreath has been elected president of the organization to succeed McKinney. Tom Johnson is secretary and treasurer and Crooner Bing Crosby retains his post as vice president.
McKinney headed a group that purchased the Pirates organization in 1948.
McKinney said he has retained the outright ownership of the Indianapolis baseball club, a Pirate farm club in the AAA American Association.
McKinney said he will remain a member of the board of directors of the Pirates. He added:
"A full working agreement has been made with Pittsburgh whereby the player personnel program inaugurated in 1947 shall proceed uninterrupted."

Message Outlines a Program For Korean Fighting As Well As Home Front Mobilization

Washington, July 19—(AP)—President Truman asked congress today for a $10,000,000,000 program to provide men and materials for Korean fighting and to guard against any armed aggression elsewhere.
Along with new military measures, Mr. Truman proposed partial home front mobilization.
There will be no price controls or rationing now. But the president said he won't hesitate to call for them if sharp price rises make them necessary.
Later, he said, there will be a request for higher taxes.
Mr. Truman asked that all legal limits on the size of the armed forces be lifted.
The president also reported to congress he has empowered Secretary of defense Johnson to call to active duty "as many National Guard units and as many units and individuals of the Reserve Forces of the Army, Navy, and Air Forces as may be required."
The Armed Services now are limited by law to 2,005,882 men. That figure is divided this way: Army 837,000, Navy 666,882 and Air Force 502,000.
At latest report the actual number of men under arms was Army 593,000, Navy 451,000 and Air Force 407,000.
Mr. Truman laid down his program in a 5500-word message to the senate and house reporting in detail on what has happened in Korea and why the United States again is fighting thousands of miles from home.
The president said the increases in the size of the armed services and the extra supplies they need will require additional appropriations. Hence in the next few days he will "transmit to the congress specific requests for appropriations in the amount of approximately $10,000,000."
At home, Mr. Truman said, there must be "substantial redirection of economic resources" to insure that defense needs will be met without bringing on inflation and its resulting hardship for every family.
Accordingly, the president proposed:
1. That congress pass legislation now authorizing priorities and allocations for materials needed for national security, to limit use of materials for non-essential purposes, to prevent hoarding, and to requisition or seize materials required for defense.
2. That all government agencies review their programs with an eye to lessening the demand for (Turn to Page Ten)

Vandergriff Pulls Out of Mid-Atlantic

Vandergriff, July 19—(AP)—The Middle Atlantic Baseball League's Vandergriff Pioneers today called it quits because of financial troubles.
Joseph F. Buccell, president of the fifth place ball club, said the organization will fold up after a game with the Butler Tigers at Vandergriff tonight.
The club has a working agreement with the Philadelphia Phillies. The major league team said disposition of players on the Vandergriff roster will be decided in the near future.
Vandergriff has been in the Middle Atlantic League four years. It topped the pennant in 1947 and 1948, ended in sixth place last year and is currently in fifth place.
Attendance at Vandergriff's home games has averaged about 300. The spokesman said crowds of at least 1,000 were needed to break even.

Young Victim of Traffic Accident In Cleveland Has Relatives In This City

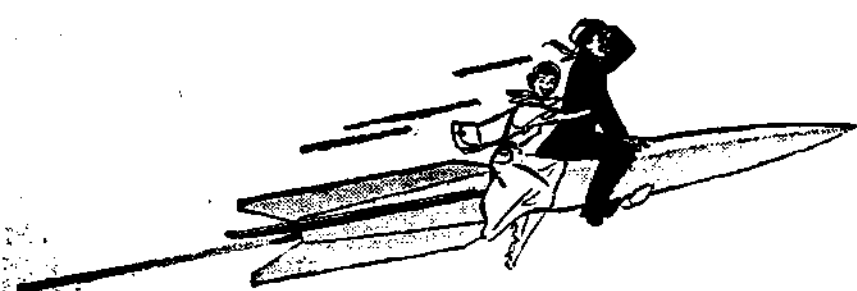

Word has been received in Warren of the tragic death of eight-year-old Marion Root, daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth D. Root, 1546 Marlowe avenue, Cleveland, O., who was instantly killed Monday afternoon when she is reported to have trodden diagonally across Detroit avenue into the path of a car, sustaining a crushed skull and other injuries.
The mother of the young accident victim is the daughter of Mrs. Myron W. Dennison, former Warren resident and has many friends and relatives in the community who join in extending sympathy.
According to an item in a Cleveland paper Mrs. Root said Marian was on her way to a two p. m. tutoring appointment in reading at the home of a nearby retired school teacher. When the child failed to return home at four o'clock, Mrs. Root called the teacher and was told that Marian had not appeared for her lesson. Further search revealed that the body of the child was in the morgue, where it was later identified by a friend of the family.

Meeting Called To Explain Plans For Dam at Columbus

Five protestants attempting to block the rebuilding of the Columbus Dam have been notified that a meeting will be held in the Columbus Town Hall Thursday evening at 8 o'clock for the purpose of reviewing the plans for the project.

This was disclosed to The Corry Journal by Carlton Curtis, president of the Columbus Municipal Authority, in answer to an inquiry. Mr. Curtis said the meeting has been scheduled in compliance with instructions from the water power resources board in the Department of Forests and Waters.

Several weeks ago when the board held a hearing in Harrisburg to consider the merits of rebuilding the dam, which would recreate a 50 acre pond, those protesting the action claimed they were doing so because the backup of water would damage their pasture land. At the same time they contended they had never had an opportunity to view the proposed plans.

At that time the board ordered the authority to show the group the plans and since that time it's reported members have been trying to arrange a meeting.

Reportedly balked when the protestants refused to appear unless an engineer from the Harrisburg department was present, the authority then contacted the board and was advised to give the protestants 10 days notice that such a meeting would be held.

At the same time the board said it would not send an engineer to Columbus, asserting the protestants had ample time to view the plans the day of the hearing in Harrisburg if they desired.

In addition to members of the authority, Assemblyman W. W. Waterhouse of this city and Attorney Pearson Eaton of Warren, who represent the authority, will be present to discuss and explain the proposed plans.

Important Notice To Young Men Now Eligible for Draft

Young men of Warren and the surrounding area who will be called up for the forthcoming draft, will not be allowed to enlist voluntarily for the Army or the Air Force, after they have received their written notice to report for pre-induction physical examination.

The important announcement was released today by Cpl. Beach of the U. S. Army and U. S. Air Force Recruiting Station located in the Post Office at Warren. The Recruiting Sergeant stated that the young men who have not received their draft notice, may enlist in Armored Cavalry, Coast Artillery Corps, Corps of Engineers, Field Artillery, Airborne, Infantry, or the U. S. Air Force. Applications and interviews are being accomplished in the recruiting office located in Post Office building, Warren, Pa.

WAR BURDEN FALLS ON U. S.
In the two world wars this country fought, our great industrial might proved decisive for victory. Each time, however, we enjoyed one supreme advantage: We had strong allies in the field who could stand off the enemy until our superior weight of metal could be brought to bear.
No responsible official in Washington or any western capital is saying the Korean fighting is the first stage of World War III, or even a prelude. But, as Bruce Bissat says, in an editorial written for NEA Service and the Times-Mirror, it is war, even though it be called a United States "police action".

As a war, it should drive home to us one hard lesson. It was just a few days old when American troops were in the thick of it, fighting and dying 7000 miles away from home. Today we are carrying the brunt of battle, with South Koreans and other UN nations lending only minor support.

That, unfortunately, is the pattern of the future. World War II sapped the strength of Britain and France, formerly our most reliable allies. Today—and tomorrow—they could not field great armies to shield us while we set our ponderous industrial machine in motion for war.

The precious time we bought with the troops of other nations in previous war will not be for sale at any price in another major conflict. The whole colossal burden of both the fighting and the supplying of munitions would fall directly and immediately upon the United States.

To be sure, Britain, France and many other freedom-loving peoples would spring to the defense and put millions of men under arms. But we would have to provide them with most of the equipment they'd need—from the start. Worse still, military weapons have become far more costly and complex than in World War II. At the very time when speed has become most vital, these factors threaten to make full-scale mobilizing a slower process than ever.

Let one example suffice. Plane makers say that if they began from scratch tomorrow to put military aircraft production on a 50,000-planes-a-year level, it would take 10 months longer to reach that goal than it did in World War II. In fact, it would require 34 months—almost three years.

Knowing all this, the very least our leaders can do is to hammer our industrial mobilization plans into the highest possible state of readiness. The penalty for neglect of this necessity will be paid in the unnecessary deaths of American soldiers in another war.

WATCH FOR PHONY PETITION

A million Americans in 40 states have signed their names to a "world peace" petition specifically aimed at outlawing atomic weapons. Probably not more than a few thousand of the signers realized that this campaign is being run by the U. S. Communist Party and is Moscow-inspired.

The peace proposal was adopted last spring at a Stockholm meeting of the Partisans of Peace, a Communist-sponsored international organization. Since then it has been circulated widely in Europe, Asia and now America. Many millions of signatures have been obtained.

Secretary of State Acheson properly branded the whole effort as fraudulent and cynical. He pointed out that just before the North Koreans attacked South Korea, it was reported half the population of North Korea had signed the petition.

This proposal is still going the rounds in America. Often it bears the cloak of labor union sanction, though the nature of such sponsorship is usually quite vague.

From here on, every American will do well if he turns away from his door the bearer of any peace petition that talks of outlawing the atom bomb, mentions Stockholm or boasts of labor sponsors. Almost certainly that proposal will be Moscow's handiwork.

PEACE OR WAR: HOUSING PROBLEM

Frank W. Cortright, executive vice president of National Association of Home Builders, has told his members: "In event of all-out war, no further construction could be started, but houses under way would be completed on a minimum basis."

"Materials would be allocated as in World War II. In event of bombing, temporary sharing of all existing facilities would be required and elaborate provision would be made for temporary shelter . . . trailers, demountables and even tent cities."

In this same connection, outlook for pre-fabricated housing may pick up. It isn't that this housing is much cheaper, or that it can be produced with less man-hours of labor.

But it can be produced centrally, under shelter, with power tools, by rapid mass production and at all seasons of the year. And it is highly mobile, which is important.

Here And There

Down through the years Warren has always been a good circus town. We have reprinted here from time to time articles from papers printed in the early eighties, and all of them seem to indicate that any worthwhile tented attraction could be certain of excellent support. Here's a paragraph from the Ledger printed in July, 1883: "Forepaugh's circus and menagerie pitched its acres of tents in this place last Friday, and opened its doors to a large audience. Not less than seven thousand people were in attendance in the afternoon. All the trains from all ways came freighted with people to see the show, and those living away from the railroads came in wagons. The crowd was much larger than the firemen's parade, larger by half. Forepaugh's has a great show and people seem to know it by instinct. The circus has many new features. Not so much to laugh at as to wonder at and enjoy. The trapeze performance was a daring, thrilling and a successful one. The rope walking by the Japanese, with his little umbrella—the walk from the ground to the top of the tent, and sliding down in an erect position, was the greatest performance ever introduced into a circus. There were many grand and novel features. But the punishment of one of the ponies for dereliction of duty seemed brutal and marred the pleasure of the otherwise good performance. The street parade was grand. Forepaugh has the greatest show on earth."

This And That: According to the Corry Journal Game Protector Bill Overturf who now patrols part of Warren county, reports that beaver damage complaints in the Marienville sector have him "swamped." He says that the principal objections arise when the fur bearing animals kill small stands of timber or dam waters that flood pasture lands. Taft's Platform to Be Used as Springboard by 'Jumping Joe'

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Service Correspondent

COLUMBUS, Ohio—(NEA)—It would be a major blow to the Republican Party—almost worse than defeat in a presidential election—if Robert A. Taft of Ohio should lose his race for re-election as U. S. senator this November.

Whether you agree with Taft's political philosophy or not, he is far and away the ablest and most effective critic of the Democratic administration in Washington. Every administration needs good critics. Taft's defeat would leave the GOP hopelessly helpless.

The Democratic candidate is, of course, State Auditor Joseph T. "Jumping Joe" Ferguson. He has a reputation as a great vote-getter. He has been elected state auditor for four four-year terms. In 1948 he won by 282,000—the largest plurality any Democrat ever received in Ohio.

He is 58. He is the father of eight children—four married, with three grandchildren, and one at home. Two of his boys were in the Navy. He says "ain't," and his final "g's," and he makes other mistakes in grammar. "Any," says Jack Kroll, "so do most of the people who vote."

THE outcome of the Ohio senatorial race, however, depends not on endorsements, but on three general election factors. One is registration and getting out the vote. The second is money. The third is the new type of Massachusetts ballot adopted by Ohio last year.

Ohio has roughly five and a half million voters. Registration has been heavy in the industrial counties, due largely to PAC effort. But Republicans have also been active in getting out the vote.

Fred Lazarus of Federated Stores and George B. Hall of Kroger's grocery chain were instrumental in organizing "The Ohio Voter," a group of trade association executives, to promote greater registration and participation in politics by businessmen. An organization of "Independents for Taft," founded at Oberlin College, has been fairly successful.

On money matters, however, Taft forces have been more successful. A. A. Weatherhead, Cleveland manufacturer, has reportedly raised nearly $1,000,000 from Ohio businessmen. At any rate, he got so much money he didn't need the help of the national movement to collect dollars in other states to aid Taft in Ohio.

The new type ballot adopted by Ohio, which eliminates party symbols and makes voting a straight party ticket impossible, has been estimated to be worth 100,000 votes for Taft.

AS for the issues, Democratic Candidate Ferguson himself says he'll campaign on the Democratic platform. He's for President Truman's civil rights program including an FEPC with teeth in it, and for repeal of the Taft-Hartley Act. He's against national defense and against government waste. He's for adequate national defenses and for the North Atlantic Pact and the Marshall Plan. "We gotta be prepared," says Joe. He claims that Senator Taft has been a complete isolationist, that he doesn't represent the people, that he has no touch of humanitarianism, being too cold. Ferguson will base his campaign largely on opposition to Taft's voting record in Congress.

If elected, Ferguson says he will launch an investigation of Taft's campaign contributions and expenditures. Ferguson charges the Republicans with trying to buy the election.

Ferguson won his primary nomination on $700 expenditures out of his own pocket. He says that he has yet to collect his first nickel of campaign contribution. Democratic state and national committees so far haven't kicked in, and neither have the PAC nor other labor organizations.

But he doesn't think it will take much money to beat Taft, because Taft will defeat himself.

Excellent Program Is Much Enjoyed At Reunion In Torpedo

Cole Hill, July 19—Torpedo Homecoming Day, held annually the third Sunday in July, got under way at 10 a. m., with President James Pike opening the service.

Speakers for the forenoon session were Rev. Leslie Frank, Union Sunday School—missionary; Rev. Ernest Kaebnick, Rev. D. J. Driscoll and Rev. Frank Kehrl, retired missionary of Warren. In the afternoon, Rev. Kehrl and Rev. Frank gave addresses, an amplifier placed near the church, carrying the voices to all in attendance.

A basket picnic was held in McConnell's Grove at noon, with nearly 100 present.

After the program, a business session was held and the following were elected to serve as officers in the coming year: President, Charles Benedict; secretary, Miss Frances Dey; treasurer, Mrs. Harold McConnell; sports committee, Ralph Pike and Frank Sudul; entertainment, Mrs. Eurnell Holmes, Mrs. George Hannah and Mrs. Charles Benedict.

Rev. Leslie Frank has returned home after attending the funeral of his mother-in-law in Brantford, Ontario. His wife and son are expected to return home Sunday.

Leonard Eastman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Eastman, Ludlow, is spending a few days with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Eastman.

Congratulations are extended to Mr. and Mrs. Orris Rowland, who were married in Grand Valley, July 14. Mrs. Rowland is the former Mrs. Wave VanGuilder, of Cambridge Springs. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Kane, of Garland, were their attendants.

Mrs. Ray McChesney and children, Alice, Junior and Gail, were home Sunday from North East, where they have been picking cherries.

With the cherry crop ripe, many families are having difficulty buying sugar in this vicinity. Some stores have not had sugar for two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Orrin Eastman, while en route to Tidouche Saturday, killed a large rattlesnake near Sutton Hill. At the time of the discovery the snake was sunning himself on a bank beside the road. It measured nearly four feet and carried but three rattles.

Today's Business Mirror

BY SAM DAWSON

New York—(AP)—The 23-day-old war has acted like a burr under the saddle of the nation's economy. It's jumped every which way.

Inflation got a big boost. Prices on many commodities soared. The cost of living jumped. The value of trade began to swell at all levels, from retail to factory, some of it due to scare buying.

Industry anticipates from $1 to $6 billion more in federal defense order soon, to boost inflation again, but to assure a booming business year.

But the economy jumped the other way, too. The market value of all the shares listed on the New York Stock Exchange is now $7 1/2 billion less than it was when the North Koreans crossed the border. Volume of trading in stocks has been high. The market is skittish. Traders swing at every rumor, like punch-drunk boxers.

Uncertainties hang over the business world, thick as flies at a picnic. The main exception to this is higher taxes. Everyone expects them. The unknown quantity is just what kind they'll be and who'll pay them.

Business seems to fear most the revival of the wartime excess profits tax. A hike on the ordinary corporation income tax is generally expected. Already the promised decrease in excise taxes on luxuries has been scuttled. Another wartime casualty seems to be the two-cent tariff on copper import. Foreign copper will be sought now, even more than before the Korean outbreak, when already copper was in tight supply because of the booming durable goods demand.

Scarcities—and even more the fear of scarcities—plague many segments of industry. Scarce buying is by no means confined to the grocery or the used-car lot. You find it in the factory purchasing ing a rattlesnake Thursday, while picking berries with her children, but it got away before she could kill it. This makes the second she has lost in the past two weeks. The other one was near her clothes line and crawled under a building before a weapon was obtained.

Vencil Sedina, who hauls the farmers' milk to the Titusville Dairy, has placed a covered body on his milk truck to qualify for the specification of that company. The body is painted yellow, similar in color to a huge brick of cheese. The whitewashers have been around painting dairy stables, which is done annually.

rooms, too. Tin, rubber, and pepper—three items that come largely from Asia—have jumped the highest in price in the last three weeks.

A speed-up in military stockpiling competes with industry for copper, tin, rubber, zinc and other war essentials. Washington is taking three of its synthetic rubber plants out of wraps and speeding up output. And this will put a squeeze on civilian chemical industries using styrene, a component of synthetic rubber.

Nylon also uses raw materials that go into synthetic rubber. Besides, in total war nylon would go into parachutes and other war goods.

Rayon shares its raw materials with explosives.

Butadiene, also used in synthetic rubber, can come either from petroleum or alcohol. In total war, the liquor industry converts to the making of industrial alcohol. And the petroleum industry concentrates on aviation gasoline and fuel for tanks.

The oil industry is getting ready. Texas has boosted the amount of oil that can be pumped from the ground next month, and it will go back to former wartime allocation methods. That means that crude oil production will be based on an oil field's ability to produce, so that output can be boosted readily to meet military requirements. In recent months the industry has used "the historical method" by keeping output of new fields from crippling the revenue from old. Now new fields, like Scurry county, can produce more, because they have more oil available.

Controls seem likely to many observers. The steel industry expects some form of allocation soon, so that military orders will be sure of priority. The auto, television and radio industries see a chance that their output may be limited to make sure there'll be plenty of metal for war needs.

Consumer credit controls may be in the offing. The federal government may end its easy home mortgage credits with which it has been supporting the construction boom.

And over all of the picture hovers the probability of higher prices, more costly living.

Industry and business in general should hum for the next few months. But you won't get a boom without paying for it.

Gunpowder is a mixture of saltpeter, sulphur and charcoal.

Firemen's Water Battle to Highlight Clarendon Program

One of the many highlight events to take place in Clarendon during that community's Old Home Week celebration, July 25-29, inclusive, will be an old-fashioned firemen's water battle, scheduled for Thursday, July 27, at the carnival grounds.

Leonard Falbriski, chief of the Clarendon Volunteer Fire Department, is chairman for this particular affair.

The Russell Fire Company, county champions, will defend their title against the following county departments: Tidouche, Sugar Grove, Youngsville, Columbus, Pleasant township, North Warren and Sheffield.

The contest will be strictly ruled and will follow the regulations set up by the Warren County Volunteer Firemen's Association.

There is no admission charge, of course, and the public is invited and urged to take in this always-exciting event.

Other members serving with Chief Falbriski on the committee include Charles Jones, Myron Bullock, Harold Wilbur, and members of Marshall Larson VFW Post 314.

Under the Federal Wage and Hour Law, employers with workers engaged in interstate commerce or the production of goods for interstate commerce must keep displayed an official poster issued by the U. S. Department of Labor's Wage and Hour and Public Contracts Divisions.

IT'S DEATH, MY DARLING!

Chapter 21

THE sheriff and the coroner arrived within the next half hour. Oddly enough, it was almost exactly the same time that they had arrived after Claude's death.

Lewis Haye, who had gone up with the coroner and the sheriff upon their arrival, came down the stairs and into the room where the rest of us were waiting. He was followed by Wilkes.

"The sheriff has to ask you a few questions," he said, addressing all of us, but looking at Pick. "He'll try to make them as brief as possible."

Wilkes stepped forward. He looked oddly embarrassed.

"Mr. Haye has been telling me what happened," he began with an awkward kindness I'd never dreamed he possessed. "Or as much of it as he knows about. But there are still one or two points I've got to have cleared up. To begin with, who was it discovered the — discovered Mr. Lee?"

"Aunt Delphine—Mrs. Dumont did," I said.

He nodded, and turned to Aunt Delphine.

"How'd you happen to find him, Mrs. Dumont?" he asked.

Aunt Delphine looked up at him with brightly alert eyes.

"I saw him come in."

"You saw him come in?" the sheriff repeated. "But I thought he hadn't left his room all day."

"Not Lee," Aunt Delphine corrected gently. "The other one."

"Other one?" I think the words burst from all of us simultaneously.

"What other one?" the sheriff demanded, staring hard at her.

But at the question, a veil seemed to drop before her eyes. It was as though she retreated into herself. "I saw him come in," she said again. "Then I saw him up the stairs, and into Lee's room. He was carrying Père Etienne's sword in his hand."

"But who, ma'am?" the sheriff demanded. "We all held our breath, waiting for the answer. But no answer came. Aunt Delphine cowered back in her chair, staring up at him with a look of speechless fear."

Either the sheriff recognized the futility of pressing the matter further just then, or he had suddenly remembered something else. He turned back to the rest of us.

"Wait a minute," he said. "I thought this place was supposed to have been locked up, so that no one could get in."

"It was," Pick spoke for the first time. "I attended to it myself. Miss Piper and Miss Brennan were with me."

The sheriff glanced at Lewis Haye.

"Where were you?" he demanded.

"I don't sleep in the house," Lewis Haye answered. "My room is in one of the garçonnieres."

"Then how'd you get in?"

"Miss Brennan came out and called me."

"But I had to unlock and unbolt the front door first," Bobby put in.

"That's right," I affirmed. "I heard her."

"Then how—" the sheriff began, when Aunt Delphine spoke again.

"He came in through the wall," she said unexpectedly. "The way Dédé used to do."

The sheriff wheeled around.

"You mean," he asked, this time trying not to appear too eager for fear of frightening her once more into silence, "that your nephew has a secret way of getting in and out of this house?"

I suddenly felt as though I had stepped into an elevator, only to find that the elevator wasn't there. Was Aunt Delphine going to implicate Amédée after all, in spite of Lewis Haye's warning?

THEN Pick came to the rescue. "She doesn't mean my cousin," she said. "Or rather, not the one you're thinking of. She means her own son, who bore the same name, but who was killed in the first World War."

The sheriff assumed the expression of a man who feels that he has been made a fool of, but isn't quite sure whom to hold responsible. He glanced half reproachfully at Aunt Delphine, then switched to a new subject.

"That sword, now," he began. "Wasn't it the same one Mr. Claude Dumont had when he died?"

It was Pick who answered.

"Yes," she said. "It was my grandfather's sword. He'd left it to Claude, as new head of the family."

"When I was here day before yesterday, nobody seemed to know where it was," the sheriff observed. "Who found it?"

"My aunt did."

"What did she do with it?" After one experience, he wasn't going to risk addressing any more questions directly to Aunt Delphine.

Pick glanced in my direction.

"She gave it to me," I admitted, and felt my mouth and throat go suddenly dry.

"To you?" The sheriff looked at me oddly. "What for?"

Usually I don't believe in obstructing an officer of the law in the performance of his duty, but this time I did it.

"To give to the person it should belong to, now that Claude is dead," I evaded. "But since Uncle Raoul wasn't here at the time, it seemed to me that Lee ought to be the person to take charge of it."

He nodded, as though this, at least, fitted smoothly into the picture.

"Then that explains how Mr. Lee happened to have it," he said more to himself than to me.

Just then there was the sound of a car stopping outside, and the next minute Amédée himself came in. He was followed by Henri, Beau, and Cousin Jeff.

Chapter 22

AT SIGHT of the sheriff through the open doorway, they all stopped, as though sensing some new trouble. Beau was the first to advance into the room.

"Father?" he began, glancing questioningly from one of us to another.

The stoic calm which Pick had maintained so heroically deserted her now, and she ran to her brother. "It's Lee, Beau," she gasped out, and dropped her head upon his shoulder. "He—he's killed himself!"

Beau started, as though he had received a physical blow. Then his arms closed about his sister.

For two or three seconds, no one spoke.

"What made him think I'd come here about his father?" the sheriff asked at last. He addressed the question to Amédée, Henri, and Cousin Jeff collectively.

It was Amédée who undertook to answer.

"Because—" he began, then stopped. He glanced at Lewis Haye.

"I didn't tell the sheriff," Lewis Haye said. "I let him think Mr. Raoul was in New Orleans with the rest of you."

The sheriff wheeled upon him.

"What's goin' on here?" he demanded. "If there's something you all've been holdin' back..."

Cousin Jeff moved forward.

"I'll explain, Wilkes," he said in his quiet, easy manner, and told what he knew about Uncle Raoul's disappearance.

The first flare of suspicion began to fade from the sheriff's eyes.

"I guess I can understand how you all felt about it, Mr. Marshall," he said. "But just the same, when you didn't get no word from him by yesterday morning, my office should have been let know. Why, he might be—"

Beau turned almost savagely upon him, one arm still around Pick.

"For God's sakes, shut up, Wilkes!" he flared. "Aren't things bad enough without you having to suggest— But I want to know about Lee," he interrupted himself. "Where is he?"

The sheriff reddened.

"He's upstairs in his room," he said. "You can go up if you want to. The coroner's there."

Beau attempted gently to release himself from Pick, but she clung to his arm.

"I want to go with you," she said.

The coroner came down the stairs in time to overhear and to grasp the situation.

"It's all right," he said to Beau. "I've finished up there. You can take her with you."

The brother and sister moved away together.

The coroner addressed the sheriff.

"Well, I'm satisfied," he said. "Everything checks at your end?"

The sheriff nodded.

There never was much doubt about young Lee's death," he replied, "although the old lady had me goin' there for a minute. He jerked his head in Aunt Delphine's direction. "But now something else's come up."

He drew the coroner back into the hall, and lowered his voice.

It was plain that he was telling him about Uncle Raoul.

After a minute, the coroner returned. He was tearing a page from a little, black-covered book in which he had just been writing.

"I'm satisfied with the cause of death, so I've filled out the death certificate," he said, waving the page to dry the fresh ink on it.

"There'll have to be an inquest, of course, but I think we can arrange it so that Miss Pick won't need to attend. He handed the now dry sheet of paper to Cousin Jeff. "In the meantime," he continued, "Sheriff Wilkes'll get a search started for Mr. Raoul Dumont. It may be that he's gone away of his own free will, although the fact that he's been gone two full days now doesn't look much like it. But in any case, we'll have to find him to let him know about Lee."

He added a few expressions of formal sympathy to be relayed to Pick and Beau. Then he and the sheriff left.

WHEN the sound of their rickety car had died away down the drive, Cousin Jeff turned to Lewis Haye.

"How did it happen, Lew?" he asked. There was no doubt of what he meant.

Lewis Haye repeated to him what was known of the circumstances of Lee's death, with a few contributions from Bobby and me. When he came to the part about the sword, Amédée looked up as though he was about to interrupt; but he remained silent until Haye had finished his account.

"What I can't understand," he said slowly, as though he was trying to explain something to himself, "is how Lee happened to have the sword in the first place. When Peter gave it to me day before yesterday, I took it out to my room in the garçonniers."

"But you told him what you were doing with it," Cousin Jeff reminded him, while Lewis Haye gave an unconscious nod of confirmation. "He must have gone out last night and got it."

"What difference does it make when he got it?" Henri demanded. "The question is, why did he do it? Why should Lee have wanted to die?"

He broke off as Beau appeared unexpectedly in the doorway. We had all been so occupied with our discussion, that none of us had heard him come down the stairs.

"I'll tell you why he did it," he flung out. The old, cynical nod was upon him again; but this time it was hard and bitter. "He did it because he'd found out the same thing that Grandpère had shortly before he died—the thing that Father must have found out too when he went away."

"What do you mean, Beau?" Amédée asked. "What was it that Grandpère had found out?"

But Beau had withdrawn into himself, as though regretting that he had spoken.

"Don't make me answer that, Dédé," he said. "It's something you'll all be happier for not knowing."

The Nation Today

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, July 18—(AP)—The books seem just about closed on any further senate investigation into the charges of Senator McCarthy, Wisconsin Republican, that the State Department is loaded with Communists.

A subcommittee of five senators—three Democrats and two Republicans—has been investigating the case ever since McCarthy first began startling the nation with his charges last February.

Yesterday the case came to a harsh and grinding halt when the three Democrats—Tydings of Maryland, Green of Rhode Island and McMahon of Connecticut—issued a report on what they found after five months.

They condemned

language that ranks with the fiercest senators have ever used against another senator. They called him a liar. They said his whole case was a "hoax and a fraud."

McCarthy used some strong language too. He said the majority report was "gigantic in its fraud and deep in its deceit x x x a green light to the Red fifth column in the United States."

"The most loyal stooges of the Kremlin could not have done a better job of writing a clean bill of fifth column."

McCarthy blasted.

subcom-

his own. But, in his 15,000 words on the McCarthy case he never once mentioned his fellow-Republican, McCarthy, by name. He didn't mention the Democrats either.

But Lodge said the whole case was far too big for a senate subcommittee to handle thoroughly. This, coupled with the report of the Democrats, adds up to one thing: the senate investigation is over.

Maybe later on the president will set up some kind of special commission to study the whole loyalty program. But that's something else and something for the future.

All this doesn't mean the McCarthy case is ended. Far from it. It is well on its way to becoming a political football. We'll hear about it from now until the congressional elections in November.

The Democrats and Republicans will bang each other with it. Not all Republicans have backed McCarthy. Some have denounced him and his tactics. Others, though, have urged him on.

Therefore, in spite of the three Democrats' report, the case will never be cleared up to the satisfaction of everyone.

For many people, aroused by McCarthy's repealed charges into thinking "where there's smoke there must be fire," have become gravely suspicious of what's happening inside their own government.

At a time when this country is involved in the Korean fighting and maybe in a world crisis Americans have been divided in their thinking about the people who run their own government.

LANDER

Lander, July 19—The Sunshine Club held its annual picnic at Reservoir Park, Jamestown, with 12 members, 3 guests and 16 children in attendance.

Mrs. Harry Light, vice president, conducted the brief meeting which followed the picnic dinner. It voted to order more metal sponges and those who did not contribute to the fund which replaced the bake sale were reminded to do so at the next meeting.

Mrs. Ellsworth Hale was accepted as a new member. The report showed $5 total receipts for the day.

Lander Emberttes, 4-H Club, met at the Grange hall with their leader, Mrs. Lyon, making "campers' delight" and "hike chocolate peppermint." Plans were made to attend the 4-H picnic at Wilder Field and announcement was made of the next meeting July 26.

Arthur Mahan, who was taken ill while in Warren, was admitted to Warren General Hospital after suffering a heart attack.

Weekend guests of Mrs. Anna Carlson were Mr. and Mrs. Lyle

Forest Farmers To Participate In Tour Of Crawford County

Farmers and homemakers of Forest county will visit four farms in Crawford county on their annual auto tour Friday.

Cars will assemble three miles from Tionesta where the detour on the Titusville road begins. Leaving there at 9:00 a. m., the tour will be joined with other cars at Nettown.

The first stop will be at Terrace Farms, a short distance north of Titusville. There the herdsman, George Simpson, will show the visitors one hundred head of Holstein cattle, and a mow hay drier using artificial heat from wood as fuel. Harold Frazier is farm manager.

Russell F. Mollenauer, Crawford county farm agent, will be tour guide. Miss Ruth Brown is the county home economics worker.

Clyde Vosburg's farm at Bethel Chapel will be the second stop. There the tourists will see sixty head of Jersey cattle, a new barn, grass silage and other grassland farming practices.

After traveling about 30 miles farther, the tour members will eat their picnic lunch at Crawford County Home, four miles from Saegertown. Carl Willard is superintendent of the farm. There they will see a newly installed mow hay finisher, Holstein dairy herd, milking parlor, grass and legume variety plots, potato variety demonstration, new freezer storage, food preserved by canning, freezing and drying.

The last stop of the trip will be at the Ralph Handley farm, near Blooming Valley. Mr. Handley is owner of a Guernsey dairy herd, and a local 4-H Dairy Club leader.

With favorable weather, the tour committee expects a larger attendance than the group of one hundred people, who visited Chautauque County, New York, last year. Members of tour committee for Forest County are J. R. Alilo, Newmansville; Mrs. Ira E. Shoup, Marienville; and Glenn Shaffer, Tionesta.

American Legion Post at Kinzua To Apply For Charter

Kinzua, July 18—The local American Legion Post, No. 747, is making application for its permanent charter and will be designated as the Brant-Bentley Post. It is being named for Charles Brant and LaVerne Bentley, Kinzua's two World War II casualties.

Funeral services in memory of Dwight D. Allen, 10 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Allen, Tarentum RD 3, who drowned here in the Allegheny river on July 6, were held in the family home at Curtisville, with a large gathering of relatives and friends in attendance. Rev. Dittie, of the Creighton Christian Mission, officiated and interment was made in Oakland cemetery at Distant.

The grief-stricken family has asked the Kinzua correspondent to express its thanks to all who helped in the recent rescue work, from the time of the alarm was sounded until three hours after the body was found and it became evident that everything possible had been done to effect revival of the lad. Special commendation is extended by the family to the volunteer fire companies of Kinzua, Clarendon, Sheffield and Kane for the way they responded to the call with their life-saving equipment and worked so diligently. Those who brought blankets, hot water bottles and other equipment are thanked for their share in the rescue work, also the telephone operator who worked so efficiently at the switchboard in the emergency.

Mary Lou Snyder has left for New York City, where she will visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Prosen, Jr.

Golden Wedding Day

Barnes, July 19.—Mr. and Mrs. S. Cook, well known local residents, are quietly celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary at their home today, but will have a party get-together later in the month, when all their children and grandchildren will be present.

Pearl Louise Stewart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Stewart, of Ritt in Potter county, and Big-ly Speed Cook, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Cook, of Warrenton, C., were united in marriage at the home of her parents, the Rev. Hugh Boyd, of the Methodist church of Galeton, reading the ceremony.

The, came to Barnes in the summer of 1919, Mr. Cook having been superintendent of the Clawson Chemical Company factory so long as it continued in operation here.

They have seven children: Mrs. Elizabeth Green and Mrs. Marina Harwood, Alexandria, Va.; Marshall Cook and Miss Mary Cook, Washington, D. C.; Stewart Cook, Silver Springs, Md.; Mrs. Leon Roberts, Erie; Mrs. Gordon Titus, Warren. Besides these, they have 12 grandchildren.

Traveling Treasure Chest Is Presented

At the regular meeting of Mountain Grange 1152, members of the Freehold group were present to present the Traveling Treasure Chest and give an interesting program.

A well-directed march and drill are given by Freehold to open the session, followed by the chest presentation and a selection, "Just Song at Twilight"; vocal solos, "A Little Angel" and "Got a Feelin' Called the Blues"; singing by Junior Shanks, playing his own guitar accompaniment; "Selling the Farm", Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Faust; reading, "First Essentials", Esther Morton.

The quartet, consisting of Clarence Carter, Sheridan Baker, Ernest Faust and Melvin Johnson, sang "The Wild Bird" and "Smile, little, smile". A round table discussion on home relations, conducted by eight members of Freehold, brought out many interesting facts concerning the home, and the program was concluded with a song, "The More We Get Together".

The next meeting in the Traveling Treasure Chest series will be held at Spring Creek Grange, when fountain members will make the presentation.

For GOOD-ness Sake
By Betty Rice

In last Friday's Times-Mirror a front page story from Harrisburg should have caught the attention of any persons interested thus far in Warren's participation in the National Blood Program. Released by the Pennsylvania Medical Society, it urged people everywhere to have their blood typed. In no way intended to be alarming, the article simply pointed out that in case of atomic warfare, having blood type available might mean life or death to an individual. Those who have donated a pint of blood already have or will soon receive a special card with his blood type, plus the RH factor, to carry with him at all times. This is a part of the Red Cross blood program—you derive various benefits from it.

The National Blood Program of the American Red Cross must be able both "to help meet the demand for blood in civilian medical practice and to serve as a bulwark against a major disaster or national military emergency," General George C. Marshall stated last Tuesday (July 11) in addressing a scientific and medical group at Boston.

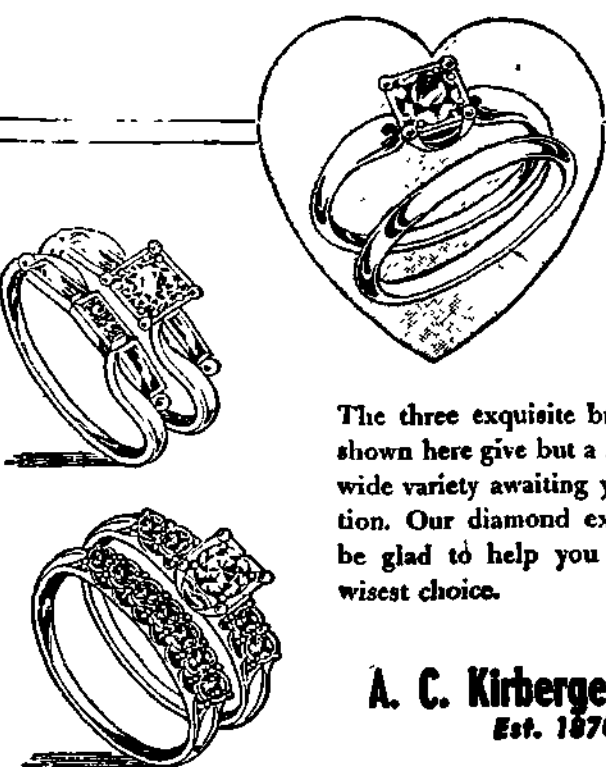

"The possible need for blood for our military forces is no longer a vague, shadowy possibility. It is a concrete fact," General Marshall said following a dinner at the Harvard Club at which he paid tribute to the cooperating

Perfume That Clings

Q.—Dear Penny. I adore perfume, but for some reason or other its fragrance just does not last on me. I have told several of my friends that I want a new perfume, but first I must find out about a lasting one.—Mrs. A. W.

A.—A particularly good idea for women who claim that perfume does not "stay with them" is a Liquid Skin Sachet. It smooths on the skin very easily, and lingers longer because of its sachet base. It has a slower rate of diffusion and evaporation than any other type of fragrance. Try this Houbigant Chantilly Liquid Skin Sachet. Only $1.75 plus tax at Mullen Drug Co. (adv.)

REPORTING

Of all the meetings planned for the annual conference of the American Library Association, being held in Cleveland this week, one of them deserves a prize for its intriguing subject. This is the Adult Education Section of the Public Libraries Division and it is discussing the subject "Should Librarians Read Books".

Odd as it may seem, this subject can cause explosive discussions among librarians. There is the group who believe that a booklover as a librarian is comparable to an alcoholic as a bartender. There is some wisdom in this point of view. For instance, the person who can shelve books like a machine is much more efficient than the person who handles each book lovingly, unable to pick one up without just a brief glance through it.

However, there is something in the love for books which is proper library atmosphere just as the love of books is the proper atmosphere for teaching literature. This is a reminder of that classic example of the high school English teacher who, over a period of several years, visited her public library twice. The first time, she borrowed a book on how to crochet dollies and, the second time, she renewed the book on how to crochet dollies. There is legitimate room for wonder as to how much current material goes into her course on English literature.

Here are a few books recommended by librarians and which are coming attractions in your own public library:

The Marx Brothers, by Crichton—The mad family of zanies whose humor has always escaped imitation is shown here to have been inspired by Minnie, mama of the brood and maddest of all.

Incredible Tale, by Johnson—This is a survey of ideas, trends in recent history, typified by Wilson, Lenin, Roosevelt. The theme is that, while intelligent leadership is indispensable, it cannot guarantee good government without an intelligent following.

The Ben Lilly Legend, by Dobie—Lilly was an old-time Western guide and trapper. This wonderful collection of yarns about him is told by a great story teller.

Parents Should Appeal to Difficult Daughter's Reason

JUST one year stands between daughter and the college degree her parents want her to have. But she wants to forget about the degree and be married this summer.

Her parents have put their plea to her to finish her education before she marries on this basis: "If you love us at all you will do this for us. If you marry now against our wishes it means you don't love us."

She thinks their plea is terribly unfair and that she has a right to make her own decision without being made unhappy by her parents' attitude.

It seems to me there is some right on both sides. The parents want her to finish college before she marries because they probably have dreamed for years of giving their daughter a college education. Also they know that a college degree offers a girl a certain amount of security for the future. It is something they can give her that no one can take from her.

But they are trying to sell her on the idea by appealing to her love for them—instead of to her common sense.

SHE'LL BALK AT EMOTIONAL ARGUMENT

SHE has a right to resent their putting their demand on an "If you don't do this for us you don't love us" basis.

That kind of an emotional appeal certainly isn't fair to the girl. If they can't make her see the wisdom of finishing her education before she marries, then they had better accept her decision calmly. They shouldn't weigh her down with guilty feelings that she has let her parents down.

It's wrong to put a daughter in the position of having to choose between her parents and the man she loves. Young people of marrying age have a right to marry without any feeling of guilt that in going forth to lead their own lives they are letting their parents down.

If they are made to feel guilty, then their parents are letting them down.

ONE-DISH oven meals simplify summertime cooking. To make certain your one-dish meal has enough nutritive value and flavor appeal, add cheese and milk to the other ingredients. All dairy foods, now in abundant supply, are rich in essential food values.

Eggplant Parmesan
(Serves 6)

Tomato Sauce: Four tablespoons butter, 1 onion chopped fine, ½ cup chopped celery, 1 tablespoon chopped parsley, 1 small bay leaf, ¼ teaspoon thyme, ½ tablespoon flour, 1 tablespoon sugar, 4 cups tomatoes, 1 can tomato paste (6 ounces), salt and pepper to taste, 1 basil leaf.

Melt butter in skillet. Add onion, celery, parsley, bayleaf, and thyme. Cook until onion is trans- parent. Stir in flour and sugar and blend until smooth. Add to- matoes, tomato paste, salt, pepper and basil leaf. Cook, tightly cov- ered, for 60 minutes over low heat.

Eggplant: One large eggplant. Peel eggplant. Slice in very thin strips. Fry in butter until golden brown.

To combine: Fried eggplant, cooked tomato sauce, slices of American cheese, grated Parmesan cheese.

Place eggplant in glass casserole dish alternately with layers of sliced cheese and tomato sauce. Top generously with grated cheese. Bake 15 to 20 minutes in moderate oven (375 degrees F.).

This one-dish meal also adds cheese, one of the most popular dairy foods, to build up protein value.

Ham and Cheese Fondue
(Serves 4-6)

One small onion, chopped fine; 2 tablespoons butter, 1 cup cubed ham, 2 cups grated Cheddar cheese, 10 slices bread, cubed; 3 eggs, 2½ cups milk, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, ½ teaspoon dry mustard, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper.

Brown chopped onion in butter. Combine ham and cheese, brown onion and bread cubes. Place in buttered 2-quart casserole. Beat eggs slightly, add milk and sea- sonings. Pour over bread cube mixture. Let stand 30 minutes. Bake in a moderate oven (350 de- grees F.) for 35 to 40 minutes or until puffy and golden brown.

TOMORROW'S MENU

BREAKFAST: Sliced ba- nanas, ready-to-eat cereal, crisp bacon, coffee cake, coffee, milk.

LUNCHEON: Cottage cheese and sour cream, let- tuce, sliced tomatoes and cu- cumbers, whole wheat sand- wiches, fresh plums, peanut cookies, tea, milk.

DINNER: Ham and cheese fondue, sliced "beefsteak" tomatoes and sweet Bermuda onions, rye bread, warm blackberry roll, vanilla ice cream, iced coffee, milk.

KUM BRIDGE BLOWN UP—Dramatic photo shows smoke billowing high into the air as this bridge on the strategic KUM River is blown up by U. S. Army ground forces. Such tactics helped to stall the Red drive on Taejon.

Communists Resume Taejon Battle With Barrage

fresh divisions in Korea said elements of one "have already entered combat" and that the other would be "committed to action in the very near future."

In the Taejon area, the battered defense lines of the 24th Division have remained unchanged since yesterday," said MacArthur. Taejon still is in American hands. Infantry patrols continued to probe enemy territory before Taejon.

INJURED IN BATTLE

Special dispatches received today from the Department of Defense include names of two area men wounded in action in the Korean action: Pfc. Robert Warren, son of Mrs. Bonnie L. Warren, Erie RD 7, and Pfc. Donald E. Withers, grandson of Mrs. Eva Snow, Oil City RD 2.

After bucking across the KUM river and driving to the outskirts of Taejon, the North Koreans have halted. One explanation was that the river crossing cost the Reds so many men they were still groggy. Another was that they could not get across many tanks to lead infantrymen.

MacArthur said the South Korean Eighth Division inflicted heavy casualties on the Reds in attacks along its front northeast of Taejon.

Other South Korean forces held their positions, MacArthur said. American jet fighters downed three Russian made Yak-9 fighters in dogfights near Taejon. The Yaks were caught strafing and bombing U. S. positions.

Landing Not the Signal for Yank Counter-Offensive

Cavalry (dismounted) and the 25th. But it is a handful of gallant American doughboys, fighting against overwhelming odds, who have been winning the battle for time.

The 24th Division was holding Taejon today for the third day since its 19th Regiment's fighting retreat from the KUM river. The 19th cut to safety through North Korean forces who had infiltrated and flanked its positions.

But if the American offensive still is weeks away, there should not be much more retreat—even at the worst.

It took the North Korean Reds two days after the fall of Chochiwon to muster and organize their Kum river assault. It already has taken them longer to build up for an expected attack on Taejon, 15 miles south of the KUM.

Allied engineers and planes blasted all bridges across the KUM in the battle area. American air through Tuesday had sighted no Red trucks or tanks moving south of the river.

Message Outlines Program For Korean Fighting

services and supplies vital to defense.

3. That taxes be boosted more sharply than he has recommended before in order to combat inflationary pressure.

4. That there be further restraints on credit expansion—along lines of curbs he directed yesterday for federally assisted housing.

5. That congress authorize production loan guarantees and direct loans to boost production. The idea is to speed and increase the output of vital materials, products and services for defense.

Mr. Truman closed his message on a confident note:

"We will follow the course we have chosen with courage and with faith, because we carry in our hearts the flame of freedom. We are fighting for liberty and for peace—and with God's blessing we shall succeed."

There was no optimistic prediction, though, for a quick victory in Korea. The course of the fighting there, the president said, shows no easy solution can be expected. He said we are facing well-supplied, well-trained forces which have been long trained for aggression.

With the whole international picture clouded, Mr. Truman made clear that America is beginning to mobilize once more not only for the Korean war, but also for any emergency elsewhere.

He reiterated his assurances that America wants no territory or domination over other lands or peoples—that "we seek a world where all men may live in peace and freedom."

The president said he would not try to predict the course of events, yet he said he is sure that those who hold the power to unleash or withhold armed aggression must realize that more aggression in the world might strain the fabric of peace to the breaking point.

He said it is clear that the free nations must step up their common security program.

Like ourselves, he said, our Allies will have to turn more economic resources to defense. But in addition, he said, they will need more help from us. And, he said, "certain other free nations" whose security is vital to our own may require assistance. He didn't name those other nations.

As soon as it can be determined what each country will need to do, Mr. Truman said, he will lay before congress a request for the necessary money.

Of the American armed forces, their commander in chief said they have fought with great valor to meet the threat to peace.

While Mr. Truman held out no immediate hope that they can start heading back up the Korean peninsula, he said this country is moving as fast as possible to send in larger forces and heavier equipment and to increase its naval and air superiority over the Communist invaders.

It will take time—he didn't say how much—to slow down the forces of aggression, stop them and throw them back, Mr. Truman cautioned.

Terming it important that the nature of the military action in Korea be understood, Mr. Truman said it was undertaken "as a matter of basic moral principle."

American help, Mr. Truman said, kept the invaders from crushing the Korean republic in a few days as they evidently had expected to do. Nowhere did Mr. Truman directly accuse Russia of fanning the fires of aggression in Korea. But he recited the record of Soviet refusal to support the U. N. or even attend meetings at which the Security Council stepped into the Korean crisis.

Mr. Truman said the Security Council's united and resolute action to put down lawless aggression is a milestone toward the establishment of a rule of law among nations.

THE MARKETS

New York, July 19—(AP)—An opening rise quickly stalled in the stock market today. Gains ranged to more than $1 a share before demand slowed. Advances were well maintained in most cases. The initial rise was a follow-through to yesterday when the market scored the largest overall advance in more than two years. Steel, rail and motor stocks were outstanding favorites, as they were yesterday. Radio-television issues also did better than average.

before," said Gov. Duff. "Pennsylvania with its tremendous industrial concentration has the very guts it takes to wage a war. We are also a prime target."

"For that reason, our responsibility rises to the plane of importance we occupy in the United States."

Included in Pennsylvania's defense program will be establishment of a civilian defense air raid warning system, air to ground observation system, local first aid installations, fire-fighting units and many other facilities.

The assembled county defense leaders viewed exhibitions of air to ground evacuation from bombed areas, and listened to talks by medical and other experts. Air raid warning and observation systems also were described.

Judge Vincent A. Carroll, Philadelphia, chairman of the State Committee for Civilian Defense said women as well as men will be welcomed as volunteers in the program. Maj. Gen. Frank A. Weber, state adjutant general, told the delegates that the Pennsylvania National Guard "stands ready for any emergency."

gress now enact legislation authorizing the government to establish priorities and allocate materials as necessary to promote the national security; to limit the use of materials for non-essential purposes; to prevent inventory hoarding and requisition supplies and materials needed for the national defense x x x.

My barber, whose wife is in Italy, has received a similar query and has paid me the compliment of asking my view, thereby giving him an opening to talk. The answer in both instances is in the negative. There is no indication that another world war is imminent. So that's what the girls have been told.

Most Americans, while naturally uneasy, seem to estimate the situation correctly. Of course there is a small fringe of the population that is doing "scare buying" of goods and food, but the vast majority are taking a very uncomfortable situation in stride. The anxiety of European countries like England and Italy, however is understandable. Both of them are sitting dangerously close to the heavy guns of Bolshevism, and Italy in addition has a big Communist party. Other countries of western Europe are experiencing similar uneasiness.

Still, by and large, the Democratic bloc is facing the Korean crisis with determination. And one of the chief reasons is the bold manner in which the United Nations has met the emergency.

That's a real bid for peace. If all the Democratic members of the United Nations would stand together under this leadership, the Korean war might be brought to an early halt. Certainly such a unified stand would be a mighty deterrent to further aggression.

Naturally there are many small members of the U. N. who cannot afford to send large contingents of troops to the Orient. They don't have to in order to support the U. N.'s stand. Even a dozen soldiers, to be fitted into a U. N. legion, would give moral support. It would mean that everybody had stood up and been counted as for or against peace.

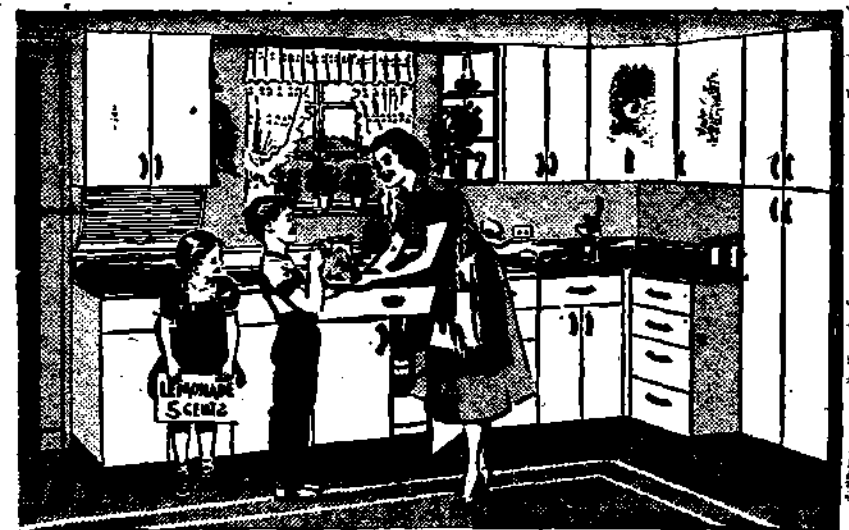

In this connection it is widely believed there should be general agreement among the democracies not to strengthen the hand of aggressors by trading which might benefit them. A case in hand is the question of oil sales to Red China. The United States has embargoed shipment of oil from America, the purpose being to plug any leaks of this strategic fuel to the forces invading south Korea.

This question of wartime trade always has been a troublesome and dangerous one, but also one possible of solution. So, all things considered, I've told my wife to finish out her English holiday.

Stiff Fine Slapped Upon Robinson By Penna. Commission

Scranton, July 9—(P)—It is going to cost Sugar Ray Robinson in the neighborhood of $6,000 to get back into the good graces of the Pennsylvania State Athletic Commission.

Commission Chairman George J. Jones, Jr., slapped a fine of $1,000 on the slim Harlem Negro yesterday and ordered him to reimburse Promoter Ernest Gennell for failing to go through with a 15-round defense of the Pennsylvania version of the middleweight title against Jose Basora tonight.

Gennell said he believed his expense to date would be around $5,000. The fight figured to draw a $30,000 gate.

Robinson said he pulled out of the fight because of a lame back. Dr. Leonard M. Freda, commission physician, said he could find nothing wrong with Sugar Ray's back.

A few hours before Jones took his action, Robinson signed to defend his welterweight crown against Charley Fusari in Jersey City, N. J., Aug. 9, for the benefit of the Damon Runyon Cancer Fund. Robinson will donate all except $1 of his purse to the fund.

The Pennsylvania Commission chairman also slapped a suspension on Robinson until he fulfills his engagement against Basora but said it would not become effective until after the Basora fight.

H. said he would ask the National Boxing Commission, of which Pennsylvania is a member, and the New York State Athletic Commission, with which it has a working agreement, to concur in the suspension.

PROPER PLAY ERASES GUESSWORK IN PLAY

Written for NEA Service
"You recently wrote an article about how to guess a certain finesse," a Denver correspondent reminds me. "There is a guess in this hand, even though there is no finesse. Will you be good enough to tell us how the experts would guess this situation?"
"West opened the six of spades. East put up the king, and South won with the ace."
"When the hand was actually played, South then led a club, and East won with the ace. East returned a spade, South played low, and West won with the jack. A spade return, forced out declarer's queen."

the 10-6 of the spades. This set the contract.
"If South had led diamonds instead of clubs at the second trick, he would have made his contract. If West took his ace of diamonds at once, he could establish the spades but could never regain the lead to cash them. If West refused, to take the ace of diamonds, South could abandon the suit and start the clubs. With one diamond trick in, he would make his contract."
"For the life of us, we cannot see why South should lead diamonds instead of clubs. Would an expert know how to guess this right?"
I have a faint suspicion that my leg is being pulled. An expert

DECLARER saw that he could make three clubs, three hearts, and two spades. He needed a diamond trick for his contract. However, when he led diamonds, West took the ace of diamonds and ran would not need to guess at all on this hand, since the proper play eliminates all guessing.

South must refuse the first trick! When East holds the first trick with the king of spades, he can do no better than to return his remaining spade. South wins and can attack either diamonds or clubs with equally satisfactory results.
If South leads diamonds, West can take the ace of diamonds and establish his spades, but he will never regain the lead to cash them. If South tackles the clubs first, East can take the club ace but cannot then return a spade. Any other return, of course, can do South no harm.
When the expert is forced to guess, he does a pretty good of it. However, if he makes necessary guesses, he's no expert.
